CHURCH CLUBS PRESENT DRAMAS

Members of Girls' Friendly Society Hold Annual Sale and Play at Christ Church—"Getting Acquainted with Madge" by A. P. C. Sorority Fills South Church Vestry

"The Butlers" a play in two acts, was presented under the direction of Mrs. Ashley Watson by members of the Girls' Friendly society in Christ church parish house on Monday evening before a large audience. A successful sale of home-made candy, salted nuts, domestic and fancy articles was held before and after the play.

The fun commences when Lord Arthur Butler descends upon the interesting but middle-class Baxter family as a boarder, sent by the daughter Jennie, who is a student at Radcliffe. His modest calling card "A. Butler" causes him to be mistaken for the real butler, who has been engaged by the thoughtful Jennie to look out for his needs. A very genuine and amiable young man, he immediately likes kind Mrs. Baxter, her bluff husband, lively young Sammy Baxter and his little sister, Mary Anne and especially the older sister Sally. He even likes Eliza Cope, the family maid of all work, who like the rest of the family, mistakes him for the expected manservant, and keeps him busy with all sorts of household tasks from cutting bread to bringing in the wood. These tasks he doesn't mind when they are shared with Miss Sally, with whom he promptly falls in love, and in the wholesome family life regains his health shattered in the World war.

When the real butler, Mr. Boggs arrives, he is in his turn, mistaken for the lord whom the family had pictured as a middle-aged man. He is treated with every consideration and his willingness to help in every way and predilection for the society of Eliza Cope are a constant source of wonderment to the Baxter family.

The confusion is complete when young Arthur asks the hand of Sally in marriage and Boggs declares his passion for Eliza. It is only the timely arrival of Jennie, which solves the mystery, when she explains that "A. Butler" is not a butler at all, and that both Boggs and Arthur are seeking brides in their own station in life.

Miss Alice Ward was the mistress of the household with Miss Daisy Stevens as the father of the family. Miss Martha Howe and Miss Eleanor Ward played the parts of the young Baxters, Mary Anne and Sammy, while Miss Edythe Wrigley was the charming Sally who so easily captured the fancy of Lord Arthur and fell in love with him even while she thought he was a butler. Miss Annetta Anderson was the unassuming Lord Arthur who made love quite convincingly, while they cleared off the table.

Poor old Boggs was seen in the person of Miss Helen Smith, much confused at the attention paid him, stiff and dignified. His consciousness of his place and unwillingness even to be seated in the presence of his betters was quite the funniest thing in the play. His handy ways about the house and consideration of the managing Eliza completely transformed the family tyrant, impersonated by Miss Doris Hilton, and she was quite willing to marry him whether as lord or butler. The daughter Jennie just returned from Radcliffe was played by Miss Alice Wrigley. Mention should also be

"IN JOSEPH'S GARDEN"

Easter Pageant Presented at the South Church Attracts Congregation which Fills Every Seat in Auditorium

A congregation numbering more than nine hundred assembled at the South Church on the evening of Easter day to witness the pageant, "In Joseph's Garden", written and presented under the direction of Emmanuel Booth, director of religious education at the Lawrence Stret church, Lawrence. A series of tableaux, representing the visitors to the tomb of the Lord in the garden of Joseph of Arimathea was accompanied by appropriate music, culminating in the singing of "I Know that my Redeemer liveth" by Mrs. Lucie Lord, who took the part of Mary Magdalene.

The service was opened by the singing of a hymn, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," by the congregation, followed by the reading of the Easter story from the Scriptures by Dr. Frank R. Shipman. Prayer was offered by Dr. E. Victor Bigelow.

The front of the church was decorated to represent the garden before the tomb, and the rich costumes of the participants and special lighting added to the effectiveness. The musical numbers were rendered by a chorus of twenty-five voices, by a quartette, a woman's trio and by several solo numbers.

EASTER EGG HUNT

Children Throng the Park on Occasion of Andover's First Community Egg Hunt Held Saturday

A gorgeous April day, such a one as would have done credit to June, lent the finishing touch to Andover's first community Easter egg hunt, which was held on the park Saturday afternoon and was participated in by more than a thousand children.

Beginning at eleven o'clock in the morning, a committee of women under Miss Margaret Davis, superintendent of the Andover Guild spent a busy hour hiding the eggs — candy eggs, chocolate eggs, hen's eggs dyed in bright colors, china eggs, eggs decorated and hand-painted. There were also baskets of eggs, chicks and chocolate bunnies. They were scattered over the grass; they nestled about the roots of the trees and were lodged on the lower boughs; they were concealed in the leaves under the shrubbery, and the twigs bore an unaccustomed fruit of silver eggs; the bandstand and the bridge sheltered more eggs — seven thousand in all.

Promptly at half past one the children assembled on Bartlet and Chestnut streets and, with what patience they could muster, waited for the bugle signal. All were provided with bags and baskets of every shape and pattern and hopes ran high of the harvest to be gathered.

Shortly after two o'clock, as the first notes of the bugles sounded by Helen Ripley and Grace Hatch from the band stand, fell upon their ears, the long lines of children broke their formation and swept over the park. Candy eggs were evidently preferred to the larger and more gorgeous hen's eggs, and few failed to find some treasure. Inside of ten minutes the pretty spectacle, watched by motorists lining the surrounding streets, was over. Groups sat about the grass comparing their spoils and a patient few still poked among the leaves in the shrubbery in the vain expectation of finding an egg which had been overlooked in the first scramble, but Andover's first community egg hunt had passed into history.

The police department, members of Walter L. Raymond, Camp 111, Sons of Veterans under Commander Charles G. Kibbee, and members of the Girl scouts assisted in carrying out the program.

The arrangements for the egg hunt were in the hands of Miss Margaret Davis, superintendent of the Guild, who was assisted by the following committees:

Arrangements — Mrs. Margaret Kimball, Miss Jessie Brown, Mrs. Ralph Hadley.

Publicity — Mrs. Albert N. Wade, Mrs. Edward Cole, Mrs. Andrew Ferrier.

Candy eggs — Mrs. Franklin Stacey, Mrs. Samuel Cromie.

Dyed eggs — Mrs. Henry G. Tyer, Mrs. J. O. Sheppard, Mrs. William C. Crowley.

Prize eggs — Mrs. C. Carleton Kimball, Mrs. Carl F. Pfatteicher, Mrs. Robert Cairnie.

The school teachers assisting were Mrs. Margaret Kimball, John Dove and Samuel C. Jackson schools; Miss Jessie Brown, Indian Ridge; Miss Genevieve McNally, Shawsheen; Miss Grace Hill, Bradlee; Mrs. Amy L. Briggs, Briggs-Allen school.

Those representin the various churches: Mrs. E. Victor Bigelow, South church; Mrs. George M. Carter, West church; Miss Betty Brown, Baptist church; Mrs. Albert N. Wade, Shawsheen community church; Miss Alice Weare, Free church; Mrs. Thomas W. Platt, Christ church; Miss Annie G. Donovan, St. Augustine's; Mrs. J. L. White, Methodist church of Ballardvale; Mrs. Herman Van Lunen, Ballardvale Congregational church.

Young People's Fellowship to Play Basketball

The girls of the Young People's Fellowship of Christ church will play the Grace church basketball team at the Guild Friday night at 7 o'clock.

A brand new setting for the Minstrel Band greeted the eyes of the expectant spectators when the curtain rose on the annual show given by the Square and Compass club in the Town hall last evening. Against a back drop of gold, was the Don Q orchestra in gay orange and black blazers with a part of the chorus in conventional evening dress. They were soon joined by a dozen colored brothers in purple and yellow and the eight end men in loud suits of blue and black checks with red ties, and last but not least by the interlocutor George A. Higgins, perfectly turned out even to his tall hat and white gloves.

The opening chorus was entered into with a will, the position of the orchestra at the back of the stage giving the voices first place. A pretty novelty was introduced in Charles Scobie's end song "Ray-Ray-Raining" when each member of the chorus raised a gaily colored umbrella. Harry Emmons won applause with "My Ohio Home" and the elaborate steps with which he concluded his number.

Other end songs were "I Told Them All about You!" by Phil Hardy; "What A Grand and Glorious Feeling" by Leonard D. Sherman and "What a Wonderful Wedding" by George Wiswall. "She Don't Wanna" was dramatically sung by Charles Gilliard and Harrison Brown won a handkerchief salute with "Broken-Hearted."

A specialty by Henry Fairweather was well received and xylophone selections by the masqued "Don Q" earned an encore. The selection by J. Everett Collins was "Walking in My Garden."

The songs were interspersed with jokes on prominent members of the club. The Topical song was given by John M. Erving who had something to say about the recent election, salary increases, and the zoning law.

The final chorus came at the end of an hour's program after which the floor was cleared for dancing.

Just before starting the show, Mr. Higgins spoke a few words in appreciation of Edward F. Whitton of Reading who had been the director of the show until a week ago, when he was stricken with an illness which proved fatal. "There Will Be One Vacant Chair" was sung by J. Everett Collins.

Thursday night's show was given before a half a house but a much larger audience is expected this evening when it will be repeated.

THE REPERTORY THEATRE

That prosperous and popular young English playwright, Noel Coward, is the author of the comedy which will have its first Boston production Monday evening at The Repertory Theatre. "The Marquise", is its title, and it has already found favor with London and New York audiences, Marie Tempest and Billie Burke respectively playing the title role in those cities. It is a comedy of the contrasts of middle age and youth, centering around a mother of forty-two who has a son of twenty-four and a daughter of only eighteen. Out of the past come the one-time lovers of the marquise, and it is all a pleasant succession of the cleverest and airiest of light comedy incidents built around this merriest and liveliest of plots. In plot, character, dialogue and all its details, Mr. Coward does not of purpose take life too seriously, and being an actor himself, he has written in "The Marquise" a comedy that is exactly suited to the stage of the present day. Theatregoers will find plenty of amusement in it from start to finish.

The Londaon and New York critics awarded this comedy a unanimous verdict of approval. It has been called a gem of a play, and it has also been described as smart, subtle and smooth. In it Mr. Coward has handled his theme with almost expert touch, and those who saw his earlier comedy, "I'll Leave it to You", at The Repertory Theatre only a few weeks ago will be certain to want to see this latest example of his skill. Its scenes are in eighteenth century France, and in stage setting, costumes and every aspect of its environment, it brings to life the spirit of that time, and recreates the picturesque atmosphere of its period. It will have at the Repertory, scenery made and painted from designs by Jonel Jorgulesco, and the cast will include Olga Birkbeck as The Marquise Eloise de Kestournel, Dennis Clough as The Compte Raoul de Vriaac, Edith Barrett as Adrienne, Milton Owen as Jacques Rijar, Arthur Sircom ss Father Clement, Thayer Roberts as Esteban, William Faversham, Jr. as Miguel, Thomas Shearer as Hubert and Mina Bayerian as Abie.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE

Critics and general public alike have acclaimed "The Legion of the Condemned", Paramount's screen drama of the "cavalry of the clouds", companion picture to "Wings", which is the forthcoming attraction at the Metropolitan theatre, Boston, starting Friday.

"The Legion of the Condemned", filled with the romance, the daring and the excitement which surrounded those birds of war for which no mission was considered too dangerous, is chock full of unique thrills taken from the cockpits of planes, according to those who have already previewed the picture.

The tale itself concerns a young newspaperman who, believing that his sweetheart has passed out of his life forever, plunges into the "Legion of the Condemned" whose personnel consists of men who want more than anything else to die. Each and every one of them have a past as black as night, and, according to their various philosphies, their sins can be only expiated through death.

Gary Cooper, playing the young hero, is torn between two fires, however, when he is confronted with the problem of transporting his sweetheart, Fay Wray, over the German lines as a spy. According to William Wellman, the director, and himself a member of the famous Lafayette Escadrille, this develops into one of the most intense climaxes that has ever been filmed. The story was written by John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings".

The music of the stage show, "Swanee Moon", a Frank Cambria production, has been specially written by Dave Stamper, the composer who has written practically all the scores for Ziegeld's eighteen Follies shows. Stamper recently joined the Publix producing corps and will furnish melodies for many future productions. "Swanee Moon" will have for its central feature Gene Rodemich and the Metropolitan stage band, but Cambria has also secured the servies of many noted entertainers who have proved their great popularity at the huge theatre in the past. Featured in the cast are such notables as Jack North, the "banjokester", Cy Landry Boston's own eccentric dancer, Kathryn Lewis, Jack Griffin, the Swanee octette, and, for the chorus, the well-known Foster Girls.

An Arthur Martel organ novelty, an overture by the Grand Orchestra, a Paramount news reel, and a cartoon comedy will round out the bill. Sunday afternoon at three o'clock the Salon Ensemble, in the second last concert of the season, will have as soloist Joseph Lautner, tenor, it has been announced by Arthur Geissler, musical director.

TREMONT THEATRE

Vincent Youmans' production of "Hit the Deck", a big musical comedy success which has played for more than one year in New York City is now drawing large audiences to the Tremont theatre in Boston. The musical comedy is a story of sailor life and deals with the adventures of gobs on land and sea, one scene showing the forward deck of a United States battleship, with the gun turret revolving with two enormous guns. The book is by Herbert Fields, with music by Vincent Youmans, the famous composer of "No, No, Nanette" and Mr. Youmans is also the owner and producer of "Hit the Deck". He made so much money out of his royalties of "No, No, Nanette" that he decided to follow that success with a production of his own, and "Hit the Deck" is the result.

There are two great big song hits in "Hit the Deck" and these have been played all over the world. They are "Hallelujah" and "Sometimes I'm Happy". There is a large chorus of seventy-five and the music is sung splendidly and played by an augmented orchestra.

The cast is headed by Miss Louise Groody, who created the role in New York and who played for more than six months in Boston in "No, No, Nanette" several seasons ago. She is supported by Donald Brian, the famous dancing comedian, and Miss Stella Mayhew, veteran comedienne, to whom falls the song of "Hallelujah".

Matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday, except that on Thursday, April 19th, (Patriot's Day) there will be a holiday matinee instead of the usual mid-week matinee on Wednesday.

SHUBERT THEATRE

"Here's Howe!" the first new musical comedy of the spring season will make its Boston bow at the Shubert theatre on Monday evening, when it will begin an engagement of two weeks only, prior to its New York opening.

This latest production of Alex. A. Aarons and Vinton Freedley, is one that holds considerable promise and has created much interest among local theatregoers, it being the first pre-Broadway showing in Boston for this progressive firm of producers.

They have recruited a small army of writers and players in an effort to make "Here's Howe!" an outstanding entertainment. Roger Wolfe Kahn is making his initial venture as a composer of musical comedy scores and he has as his collaborator, Joseph Meyer, who already has several successes to his credit. Irving Caesar has fitted bright lyrics to their infectious tunes.

The book is by Fred Thompson and Paul Gerard Smith and is said to have not only a definite and well-sustained plot, but one that is exceedingly novel and it is the desire of the producers to withhold its exact nature until the local opening.

The cast of "Here's Howe!" embraces a host of celebrities including Allen Kearns, recently in "Funny Face," and seen here in "Little Jessie James", "Tip-Toes" and "Mercenary Mary"; Irene Delroy, prima donna of the last "Ziegfeld Follies"; the droll Don Barcly, another Follies alumnus; Peggy Chamberlin, William Frawley, Helen Carrington, Ross Himes, Colette d'Arville and Ben Bernie and his celebrated orchestra, the maestro making his debut as a regular actor in the new piece.

Sammy Lee has staged the dances and ensembles, and they do say that he has selected a chorus of exceptional comeliness. John Wenger designed the several handsome scenic backgrounds and Kiviette the colorful costumes.

WILBUR THEATRE

When Laura Hope Crews appeared as Mrs. Phelps in Sidney Howard's "The Silver Cord", as produced in New York last season, it was generally recognized that one of the chief comediennes of our American stage had found the role for which her distinguished career had waited to fully test and give expression to her double genius for character and comedy. Her complete identification with every nuance of feeling in this richly emotional part was, according to critics, only equalled by her delicately pointed emphasis of the ironic humor which lies back of the lines. Sidney Howard published in the printed edition of the play an acknowledgment of the "play's indebtedness to Miss Crews" for "the incalculable enrichment" she brought to it. And any sensitive playgoer who made his way into the packed Golden Theatre at any peformance during its long run could not help but be aware of her contribution to the general effectiveness of the piece.

The announcement, then, that Miss Crews will recreate her original interpretation of the role of Mrs. Phelps when "The Silver Cord" opens at the Wilbur theatre, Boston, for an engagement of two weeks only, with matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays, will be received as welcome news by those who failed to see this production in New York. The cast in support of Miss Crews includes Elizabeth Rison, Alden Chase, Parmela Simpson, Jack Quesey, Hazel Stone and others.

Trustees of Phillips Academy Announce Three New Teaching Foundations

At the regular spring meeting of the Board of Trustees of Phillips academy, held in Andover on Saturday, April 7th, announcement was made of the establishment of three new teaching foundations of $160,000 each. By vote of the Trustees these foundations, each paying an annual salary of $8,000, were assigned to Archibald Freeman, Arthur Willis Leonard, and Claude Moore Fuess, all three members of the present teaching staff. Mr. Freeman, who has been Instructor in History since 1892, is a graduate of Brown University in the class of 1889, and took his Master's Degree at Cornell in 1890. He is the joint author with Professor Emerson D. Fite of Vassar College of "A Book of Old Maps." published in 1927, and has edited several school text books. He is a Fellow of the Royal Geographic Society, and has been president of the New England Association of Teachers of History. Mr. Leonard, who has been Instructor in English at Phillips Academy since 1907, is a graduate of Princeton University in the class of 1897. He was for some years a teacher in the Academy for Boys at the University of Chicago. He is editor of several well known text books, and is the joint author with Mr. Fuess of "Good Writing" and "A High School Spelling Book." Mr. Fuess has been at Andover since 1908 as Instructor in English. He is a graduate of Amherst College in the class of 1905, and holds a Ph.D. degree from Columbia University. He is the author of several volumes, including "An Old New England School," "The Life of Caleb Cushing," and a recent book, "Rufus Choate, The Wizard of the Law," as well as several text books on English. He is a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and has been president of the New England Association of Teachers of English. These three appointments increase the number of teachers at Phillips Academy on such foundations to five, two previous appointees being Charles Henry Forbes, in Latin, and Allen Rogers Benner, in Greek. It is the expectation of the Trustees that five additional foundations of a similar character will be completed by the time of the 150th anniversary celebration on May 18 and 19. In connection with these foundations the Trustees of Phillips Academy have made the following official statement:—

"Recent generous gifts to the Trustees of Phillips Academy have made possible the establishment of a number of additional foundations for teaching positions in the school on which large salaries (the maximum being $8,000) will be paid. (It is hoped that ten such foundations will shortly be created.)

"The purpose of these endowments is to add distinctive strength to the teaching force of the Academy. The salaries which can be paid from them will be larger than those now paid to teachers in schools or colleges in this country, except in the case of the relatively few highest-paid men in a very small number of institutions. In establishing these foundations the donors have desired not only to promote the interests of Phillips Academy but also to encourage the establishment of similar salaries in schools throughout the country whereby the profession of the teacher may be improved and strengthened.

In administering this trust the Trustees feel that the purpose of the donors requires them to seek in the whole country the best men that can be obtained for these foundations. In some cases the positions on the new foundations will be held by present members of the Academy staff; but for every position the Trustees' aim must be to secure the best available man in the field. The qualifications will be scholarship, high character, skill in teaching, and the spirit which deems it a privilege to give the teacher's life to his boys both within and without the class-room.

This statement is made by authority of the Trustees."

Two New Hampshire Tracts To Be Preserved as Forest Areas

Purchase and preservation of two forest tracts in New Hampshire, the Franconia Notch area and the 22,500 acre Waterville expanse, seems assured as the result of recent developments. While $12,000 still is needed to complete the $400,000 purchase price for the Franconia tract, the Society for the Preservation of New Hampshire Forests is guaranteeing the raising of this amount, according to Philip W. Ayres, forester, and an option on the area has been authorized and taken.

Under the terms of the proposed sale it was necessary to close the option by April 1, and the purchase must be completed by payment of the total sum by June 1. The purchase is financed so far by a state appropriation of $200,000, a gift from the late James J. Storrow of $100,000, and the $88,000 raised by the society in a public campaign. The society will continue its effort to secure the remaining $12,000 by June 1.

Passage by the House of Representatives in Washington of the Agricultural appropriation bill carrying $1,000,000 for the purchase of lands was followed by the taking of an option by the Forest Service on the Waterville tract, purchase price of which is $1,050,000. Sale of marketable timber on portions of this tract, leaving a scientifically selected growing forest, is contemplated to partially reimburse the Federal Government. A total of 800 acres, embracing the "Greeley Ponds" area at the head of Mad River, will be preserved perpetually in its virgin state, however.

Your Health Should Come First!

There is no greater joy in the world than that of possessing good health. It is something that cannot be obtained in a day, a month or a year, but results from the regular practice of good habits, pure food and the advice of the family physician at least once a year.

Of the three rules, good food is the most essential. It builds up or decreases the vitality of the body, according to its nutrition value. Therefore, in bread, which is "The Staff of Life," you want the very best procurable.

You want bread that has a reputation for its quality and is sold on that basis alone. To be induced to buy bread for any other reason than quality is inviting possible sickness and loss of vitality because of malnutrition.

Your health should come first every time. That is the reason why into every loaf of 20th Century Bread goes the very finest ingredients in order that the thousands who eat it may enjoy good health in abundance.

WINTER'S OVER

CHANGE YOUR OIL TODAY

"IS your crankcase ready for spring?" That is the question every Socony man is asking the motorists at his station.

It is a vital question, for winter driving means diluted, dirty oil. Diluted, because the use of the choke in cold weather lets excess gasoline seep down into the crankcase. Dirty, because dust from the air gets into the oil through the air intake.

Let the Socony man drain the crankcase now. Let him flush it out with Socony Flushing Oil, and refill with Socony Motor Oil. It takes only a few minutes and costs only two or three dollars, depending on the amount of oil you need. No charge for the service; you pay only for the oils.

Important. Your car represents an investment of hundreds of dollars. Poor gasoline or motor oil can ruin that investment. Standardize on Socony, backed by fifty-four years of refining experience.

Socony Motor Oil and Gasoline must pass 13 rigid tests before they reach your car.

More Contributions to Sesquicentennial Record

There have recently been more than twenty new contributors to the Sesquicentennial Record, so that the writers, both Andover graduates and friends, now number one hundred and twenty. The most outstanding of the recent contributions is the reminiscence, "Andover in the Some-Time Since, by Edward S. Martin, '72, who has written the editorials for more than a quarter century in Life and Harper's. It is illustrated by four amusing cartoons by F. G. Cooper, an associate editor of Life and a noted artist.

Honourable Edwin V. Morgan, '86, Ambassador to Brazil, has sent an excellent article, "Andover in the Diplomatic Service." Grant Mitchell, '92, the well known actor in the "Baby Cyclone", in his interesting story, the "Sea of Faces," gives a graphic picture of the troubles experienced by stage performers. In "Andover and the Sons of the Great or Rich" by Archibald B. Roosevelt, '13, the youngest son of the late President of the United States, the author ably brings forward a new topic, rarely touched upon by those writing about schools. There are many others: Walton H. Smith, '17, the eminent novelist and African explorer; Major-General Adolphus W. Greely, a Civil War veteran and the first American to reach nearest the North Pole; Sir Herbert Ames; Ex-Governor George R. Carter, '85, of the Hawaiian Islands; Julian S. Mason, '94, editor of the New York Evening Post; Charles G. Abbot, '91, one of the most noted scientists in this country and recently appointed secretary of the Smithsonian Institute; William L. W. Field, headmaster of Milton Academy; and President Harry A. Garfield of Williams College.

Yale men and readers of the "Cruise of the Kawa"and the"Arctic Exposure" will greatly appreciate the humorous letter by Dr. W. E. Traprock or better known as George S. Chappell, Yale '99, architect and writer, who is to lead the singing at the Sesquicentennial celebration. This piece of work should rank close to Ring Lardner's contribution, Vachel Rutisgrwt.

There are two short statements by Francis Brett Young, the novelist, and Major Vivian Gilbert, the actor and author who fought in the campaigns in Macedonia, Egypt and Palestine.

An excellent dedication portrait of James C. Sawyer, has been drawn by Raymond M. Crosby, '93, the artist and illustrator for the Saturday Evening Post. Charles M. Platt, the architect of the George Washington Auditorium, has sent a very fine etching called the "Mountain." Three paintings now in the possession of the school are being reproduced:"West Wind"by Winslow Homer; "Anne in Purple" by George Bellows; and "Horses at Parma" by John S. Sargent. Franklin Collier, who for many years drew the Otto Grow pictures in the Boston Herald, and who many years ago cartooned the Andover-Exeter games, has made a sketch for the editorial. There will also be drawings by Singleton Moorehead and J. Layn Mills, both Andover graduates

Nearly thirty engravings, renderings, and wood cuts of the old school will be reproduced. There will also be a great many sketches and caricatures taken from school publications in the time of the "Gay Nineties."

Copies may be reserved now by sending a dollar bill to Alfred Ogden, Bartlet Hall, Andover, Mass. After May 17 copies may be obtained through Brentano's of New York, the Old Corner Bookstore and the Yale Club in Boston, and the Andover Bookstore.

GIRLS' CLUB PLAYS

made of Lord Arthur's dog, who played his part as became the pet of a gentleman.

Before the play, and between the acts, songs were sung by Miss Marion Abbott with Miss Marion Hill as accompanist.

Those who assisted at the sale were Mrs. Claxton Munroe, Miss Ruth Saunders and Miss Anne Swenson at the candy table, and Miss Emily Richards and Miss Margaret McTernen at the fancy work and domestic table. Dorothy Swenson and Mary Ward sold candy between the acts.

Miss Ray Somerville and Miss Grace Larkin had charge of the tickets.

The South church vestry was well filled on Tuesday evening in answer to the invitation from the A. P. C. sorority "to get acquainted with Madge". In addition to the three-act play, there was music by the A. P. C. orchestra and a sale of candy and nuts in charge of Mrs. Roy Hardy.

The fascinating Madge Ridgeway, accompanied by her mother, who is a perfect dragon, takes refuge from a storm of wind and rain in a student's room at the university. Not only does the owner of the room, Arthur Tilden, fall a victim to her charms, but also four of his chums as well, even though they have never met her. A compact is entered into whereby they are to strive to make the acquaintance of Madge, and secure her company for the big football game. The party for the winner is to be financed by the losers.

The scene then changes to the Ridgeway home where one ambitious youth after another makes his appearance under one pretext or another. Arthur prepares for his appearance by announcing his presence in the city by a telegram and is invited to dinner. Frank Garner ventures to masquerade as a cook and has much difficulty in beguiling the fair charmer into the kitchen. His rivals he makes no bones about throwing forcibly out of the rear entrance. Randall Graham finds a pretext for his presence as a special police officer. Harry Neville aspires to succeed to the practice of Dr. Ridgeway, who is rendered nearly helpless by rheumatism. The star masquerader is Sam Forbush, who, in chaps, red shirt and sombrero announces himself as Dr. Ridgeway's brother, Madge's uncle, who has been absent in the far West for twenty-five years. His assumed relationship secures him some privileges, but he loses ground to the urbane Arthur.

The young men's secret is kept and finally given away by Aunt Minnie, who is the wife of the real uncle from the West. During their twenty-five years in Montana, they have made a fortune in copper and desire to know the real character of the relatives who snubbed them years before. For this purpose she is staying in the Ridgeway household in the guise of a maid. At the proper moment she reveals her identity and lends her influence to the suit of Arthur, who is also her nephew.

Although more than half the characters in the play were men, members of the A. P. C. sorority made a dashing-looking lot of college youths, and even assumed the roles of a dignified middle-aged butler and a rheumatic invalid without difficulty. To Mrs. George Abbott fell the difficult task of taking a man's part, and then playing at being a woman. These transitions she managed very well with her changing voice. Miss Marion Abbott was the young English student who later posed as a doctor while Miss Helen McGraw assumed the roles of student and policeman. The breezy manners of the impostor from the West were seen in the person of Mrs. James Downes, her red shirt and hearty impersonation of the part lending color to every scene in which she appeared. The part of the hero, Arthur Tilden was taken by Mrs. George Collins.

Mrs. Fred Tapley was the fair Madge who set all the men by the ears. Her domineering, fussy mother was admirably protrayed by Mrs. Frank Crawford. Mrs. Raymond Brickett was the dignified butler in the young men's apartment, who in spite of advancing years had an eye for the ladies.

Mrs. Shirley Barnard was Aunt Minnie and the maid while Miss Agatha Wade was the real maid, with a taste for romantic novels and none for dusting. The intimate girl friend of the heroine whose name,"Jerry", caused much confusion was played by Mrs. Nathaniel Stowers. Miss Ruth Abbott, as Dr. Ridgeway never forgot for a moment that she was a rheumatic invalid.

Before the play and between the acts there was music by the A. P. C. orchestra uniformed in gay blazers and led by Miss Marion Abbott. Its members were Miss Anne Stone, Mrs. Frank Gould, Mrs. John A. Burtt, Miss Beatrice Henderson, Miss Frances Hall, Miss Edith Hendall, Mrs. Osborne Sutton, Mrs. Albert Curtis, Mrs. Harry Emmons, Miss Edith Johnson, and Miss Georgina Cromie.

Those who had charge of the sale of candy were Mrs. Roy Hardy, Mrs. Coye, Mrs. Ada Brown, Mrs. J. Everett Collins and Mrs. Frank Petty.

Mrs. J. Everett Collins had charge of the sale of tickets.

The ushers were Miss Edna Gates, Miss Marjorie Sherman and Miss Helen Robertson.

Clerical Sandwich

A missionary to one of the islands where man-eating is still practiced was captured by a cannibal chief. To his surprise he was offered his freedom on condition that he would carry a small packet to another chief in the mountains. He agreed and he was so grateful to his captor that when on his way he met a detachment of marines, he declined to accompany them to safe territory. The sealed packet should be delivered as he had promised.

But while one officer was arguing with him another quietly opened the packet. It contained a small quantity of onions with a note to the chief reading: "The bearer will be delicious with these."—Boston Transcript.

Poetic Justice

"Arabs dearly love what we call poetic justice," said Lowell Thomas, the writer-lecturer. "They tell the story of an Arab who stole a horse and sent his son to market to sell it. On the way to market, the son was himself robbed of the horse and forced to return to his father empty handed.

"'Ah!' exclaimed the old man when his son walked back into camp. 'I see thou has sold the horse. How much did it bring.'

"'Father,' said the son disconsolately, 'it brought the same price for which thou thyself didst buy it?'"

Ground Broken for Oliver Wendell Holmes Library

Ground was broken last Saturday on the Phillips Academy campus for a new building, to cost $400,000.00, and to be named the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library, in honor of Oliver Wendell Holmes, a graduate of Phillips Academy in the class of 1826. This structure, the architect for which is Charles A. Platt of New York City, is to be situated to the west of Pearson Hall, in a line with Pearson and Morse Halls, and balancing the present Stone Chapel in location. It will be constructed of brick and stone, in Georgian Colonial style, in accordance with the type of architecture now generally in vogue on Andover Hill. The entrance, with its portico of four limestone monolith columns, will be dignified and impressive. After passing through the vestibule, with a coat room on one side and a stairway on the other, one will enter the delivery room, which will be approximately 12 feet by 19 feet in size, and will have a skylight two stories up. Beyond this will be a stack room containing four levels of steel bookcaaes. On the left of the delivery room will be the reading room, of the same height, but covering 34 by 73 ft. in floor space. The walls of this room will be lined between the windows with bookcases, to a height of seven feet, and a ceiling of white plaster will add greatly to the general beauty of the room. On the right of the delivery room will be a lounge room, one story in height, containing books by standard authors. It will contain a fireplace, and will be furnished with comfortable chairs, sofas, and rugs. In the rear of the first floor will be the librarian's private office. The interior will be panelled and finished in the beautiful style charactoristic of Mr. Platt's work.

It is expected that the excavation will be well under way by the time of the 150th anniversary celebration on May 18th and 19th. The entire building, with its capacity of 130,000 volumes, will be finished within a year. After its completion Brechin Hall, the former Andover Seminary Building, in which the Phillips Academy Library is now located, will be razed.

It was led by Homer Wadman, president of the South church society, and was opened by a hymn followed by the scripture, a prayer led by Rev. Clinton W. Carvell of North Andover and a vocal solo by Howard Harrington. Mrs. Herbert Otis, president of the Andover Union gave a short talk about "The Theme of a Crusade With Christ." This was followed by a hymn, a reading by Homer Wadman, "Sunday, the Day of Ressurection" another hymn and the communion service led by Mr. Carvell assisted by Rev. C. Norman Bartlett. The service closed with prayer and benediction.

Following the service hot coffee and doughnuts were served by the committee consisting of Dorothy Douglas, Jeannette Meehan, Arlene Meehan, Jeanne Harrington, Katherine Blunt and Frances Hall.

The C. E. society of the South church met in the vestry Sunday evening with Miss Mildred Morse as leader. The subject for discussion was "Why We Believe in Immortality." Next week Miss Annie Belle Leake will lead the meeting. The topic will be "The Dangers of Slang and Cheap Talk."

United States Coast and Geodetic Survey In Need of Engineers

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced that the Coast and Geodetic Survey of the Department of Commerce is in need of junior engineers and deck officers, and that applications for the positions will be received until May 1. The entrance salary is $2,000 a year.

The field officers of the Coast and Geodetic Survey constitute one of the six commissioned services of the United States. They hold relative rank with officers of the Navy and the Army. As vacancies occur in the lower commissioned grades they are filled by the promotion of those who, after at least six months' experience in the temporary grade of junior engineer and deck officer, show ability to perform the work of the service and pass a satisfactory physical examination.

The examination for junior engineer and deck officer consists of the major subjects of college mathematics, physics, and an engineering subject. In addition, competitors must take three of the minor subjects, astronomy, English, hydraulics, modern languages, design of structures, and surveying.

Full information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or from the United States Civil Service Board at the post office or customhouse in any city.

Dandelion greens can be gathered very early in the season, when they are young, tender, and least bitter. Owing to this bitterness of flavor, it is a good plan to combine the dandelion greens with other vegetables or flavors which modify it. The plan of cooking these greens in several waters is not recommended because much of the valuable mineral matter is thrown away, vitamins are destroyed, and the greens are overcooked. Raw dandelion leaves or those cooked without water are less bitter than those that have been boiled.

"Mechanical Insect Pests"

The following editorial, "Mechanical Insect Pests" taken from the Boston Daily Globe, gives an interesting review of the ever present dramas—or shall we say tragedies of "Motorist versus Pedestrian" and "Motorist versus Motorist".

Traffic on the highways has begun to swell toward the unwieldy proportions it will attain in the Summer months. From now on the hospital lists of those injured in motor accidents will grow in length—also the repair bills for wrecked mudguards, twisted running boards, punctured radiators and other damages. Now, before the time of greatest danger, there is an opportunity to take stock of ourselves.

Besides the common and much-denounced speed maniac and the more dangerous drunken driver there are a number of other types of motorists and pedestrians who deserve listing in the category of nuisances, or worse. The practices of which they are guilty are more in the nature of mistaken mental attitudes or of misplaced faith in other people's competence than they are actively dangerous.

The first of these types is the vengefully minded driver. This man, if he considers he has been put upon by another driver who passed him, will pursue the other car as far as 20 miles in order to cut abruptly across the other's front wheels while at the same time he gives the offending one as ugly a look as his face will permit. Having accomplished this feat he is at peace with himself, until somebody else trespasses on his conception of his rights. When two such drivers cross each other's paths there is apt to be quite an exhibition of snooty driving.

Next on the list is the wise driver who bases his entire theory on the power of a bluff. This man will take absurd chances, firm in the belief that no matter how tight a situation he may get himself into, the other drivers will somehow manage to get him out. When two such men meet there is trouble.

Third is the dodderer, usually an amiable old body out for a ride. Why anybody enjoys a ride on a busy traffic highway is past clairvoyance, but there are such people. The dodderer will jog along just off the center of the road where nobody can pass him and contemplate the scenery. Of course to contemplate properly he has to roll along at some wild speed, say 15 miles an hour. Just for safety's sake he frequently glances at the road ahead, but he seldom looks behind. It would be better if he did, for he is in more danger from behind than from before.

Another pest is the fellow who gives the wrong hand signal, or none at all, or one that may mean anything. Some drivers consider that once they have draped a limp hand out the driver's window they have done everything required of them. They have not. They ought to learn what hand signals mean and give them correctly.

Now, while most of the onus of any accident is placed on the shoulders of the automobile driver, and rightly, since any driver has a far greater responsibility than any pedestrian, there are nevertheless certain types of pedestrian who cause more than their share of annoyance. Pedestrians, too, have some responsibilities.

First among the walking pests is the wise guy. This specimen, who may be of either sex, has too much self-respect to pay the slightest attention to an automobilist's warning horn, or to hasten his steps. He knows full well that it is much easier for him to take his 150 pounds out of the way than it is for an automobile driver to stop a ton, more or less, or rolling steel. This man pins his faith to four-wheel brakes and the skill of the average driver. He is sometimes mistaken.

Next to the wise guy in the column of foolish pedestrians comes the panic-striken one. He is so astounded by the approach of a machine that he tries to run in half a dozen directions at once and consequently stalls right where he is. It is a shame to run over him, but why did the hen cross the road?

This Spring, at the very beginning of the rush months, it would be well for motorists and pedestrians alike to take account of their practices. One of the best ways by which all hands could aid in making the highways safer and pleasanter would be for both drivers and pedestrians to acquire an attitude of courtesy and to admit that in some degree they must accommodate their own actions to those of others.

The Marines sent to Nicaragua to supervise the elections of that country are under a serious handicap. They lack practical experience in handling real elections. If only they could have been in Chicago this week for preliminary training and instruction, they could now return to Central America and conduct an election according to the most up to date American methods. They would show these backward Nicaraguans what a really live thing a well planned election can be.

Clinical Psychologist to Speak at League of Women Voters

The next meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters will be held on Tuesday, April 17, at 3.15 p. m. at the Phelps House. Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott will speak on "Mental Tests and their Relation to Behavior Problems".

Mrs. Abbott is a clinical psychologist at the Judge Baker Foundation in Boston and is also in private practice with a psychiatrist. She graduated from Smith college in 1911. She is the mother of five children and speaks from practical experience in her lectures. She has just received her Master's Degree in Psychology from Radcliffe college where she was the first person to obtain credit for research work done at the Foundation under both the Department of Social Ethics and the Department of Philosophy.

Mrs. Abbott is at present president of the Boston Brach of the Association of University Women and past president of both the Boston and Winchester Smith college clubs. She served for three years as Chairman of the Case Committee of the Florence Crittenton League of Boston and has held many other positions of like importance all of which experiences contribute to the practical aspects of her lectures.

Mrs. Abbott has spoken before Women's clubs, Parent-Teacher organizations and College Groups in New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Vermont, and has recently lectured at the Educational Conference at Smith college. She lectured to the State Convention of University Women of Vermont in June.

This summer Mrs. Abbott is planning a trip to Europe to study the methods of dealing with problem children in vogue in well known clinics abroad and will have many new topics to offer in the fall.

Explorations in Plant Life

Wonderful moving pictures showing the life story of plants were shown by Arthur C. Pillsbury in George Washington hall on Saturday evening. Before the eyes of the spectators, acorns germinated, ferns unrolled their fronds, buds burst into bloom, and the full blown flowers drooped and died.

Infinite care and patience were required to make the pictures. A film made by taking a picture every fifteen minutes day and night for a week was run off in little more than half a minute. Some of the flowers were the familiar brown-eyed Susan, dandelion, milkweed and wild rose, but the majority of them were flowers found in California, Yosemite National park and the Hawaiian Islands. All the films were beautifully colored.

Perhaps the most wonderful pictures of all were those taken through a microscope, showing the growth of pollen and the circulation of chlorophyl, process easily visible on the screen but which would require many tedious hours for the individual to watch through the microscope.

Mr. Pillsbury expects to continue his work and take X-ray pictures showing what goes on inside of plants.

Christ Church Sunday School Holds Easter Carol Service

The annual Easter carol service for Christ church Sunday school was held Sunday afternoon in the church. William Jacobs, a Sioux Indian from South Dakota, known in his tribe as "Crazy Bull" addressed the children and told them stories about the living conditions in South Dakota and also showed them the sign language which was most amusing to the children.

"Crazy Bull" also told about the missionaries of the various denominations who are found in his country and how they are known by the Indians. He said that the Catholics are known as the "Black Robes," the Episcopalians as the "White Robes," the Presbyterians as the "Short Coats," and Congregationalists as the "Loud Talking People," and the Baptists as the "Much Water People." He wore his Indian robes and feathers and shook hands with each of the children. Each child received a plant which was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Irving W. Southworth in memory of their daughter, Mary Ella.

Children Enjoy Japanese Visitors

Three Japanese dolls, Miss Nagario, Miss Yamagata and Miss Kwanto-shu, were visited at the November clubhouse, where they were honored guests on Wednesday and Thursday by nearly two hundred children. After examining the dolls to their hearts' content, each child was given a ticket to the movies where he or she (and there were nearly as many boys as girls) saw a Fox film showing the story of the collecting and packing of the American friendship dolls and their ceremonious reception in Japan. It was in response to these doll messengers of friendship sent to Japan in season to attend the festival of dolls on March 3, 1927, that the fifty-eight Japanese dolls came to America among which were the three which were shown at the clubhouse.

The dolls which were about three feet high were dressed in kimonos, rich in fabrics, and gorgeous in coloring — not one kimono apiece, but three lovely garments, one over the other. The silk shoes were cut like a mitten with a separate section for the great toe and fastened with a neat ivory hook and loop. Each visitor had her own vanity case and trunk.

An appropriate setting was arranged for the reception of the travelers from across the seas with flowers, Japanese lanterns, screens and hangings, posters and flags, and the symbolic five steps rising behind them.

Additional objects of interest were Japanese toys and a Japanese village made by the Junior Helpers of the South church.

The members of the committee from the Civics Department of the November club who made the arrangements for receiving the Japanese messengers of friendship were Mrs. Frank L. Brigham, Mrs. F. W. H. Stott, Miss Mary Bell, Mrs. C. Carleton Kimball, Miss Fonnie Davis, Miss Alice Bell, Mrs. Carl Pfatteicher, Mrs. John Avery, Mrs. V. M. Fitzhugh, Mrs. John Mercer, Mrs. G. M. G. Nichols, Mrs. John A. Arnold.

These will be distributed to those members of the alumni body who attend the celebration. An especially designed medal of gold will be given to distinguished guests who are not graduates of the school. Other special insignia are being prepared for members of committees in connection with the event. The members of the undergraduate police will wear blue arm bands indicative of their office.

Extensive Landscape Planting on Phillips Academy Campus

In preparation for the 150th anniversary on May 18th and 19th, at Phillips Academy, extensive changes are being made on Andover Hill. From the Phillips Gateway to Samuel Phillips Hall a broad mall is being built, to consist of a lawn, bordered on each side by large elms. Half way between those two points, on the terrace between Bartlet and Foxcroft Halls, there will be placed a bronze armillary, designed by Paul Manship, and made in France. All the walks within the great quadrangle are being laid with large flag stones, and a flag stone terrace is being constructed in front of the portico of Samuel Phillips Hall. An extensive planting of cedars, pines, spruces, and other non-deciduous trees, together with shrubbery, is being made around the various buildings in the quadrangle, under the direction of Olmsted Brothers. The expense for these transformations is being met by the gift of a generous alumnus.

Members of Guild of Boston Artists to Exhibit in Lawrence

Members of the Guild of Boston Artists are holding an exhibition of oil paintings, water colors and sculpture, at the Lawrence Public library, April 10-24, under the auspices of the Lawrence Woman's club.

The library is open on week days from 9.00 a.m. to 9.00 p.m. and on Sundays and Patriot's day from 2.00-6.00 p.m. The exhibition is free to all.

Art Exhibition at Lawrence Public Library

What is undoubtedly the finest collection of paintings and sculpture that has ever been assembled in Lawrence will be on exhibition at the public library, until April 24. The entire exhibit is made up of the work of some of the most distinguished members of the Guild of Boston Artists, among them, William M. Paxton, Marie D. Page, William J. Kaula, Arthur P. Spear, Louis Kronberg, Charles Charles Bittinger, Ernest L. Major, instructor at the Normal Art school, and four members of the Ogunquit Art colony, namely, Stanley W. Woodward, Charles H. Woodbury, Charles C. Allen and Henry W. Rice; also the following noted sculptors, Cyrus E Dallin, Anna Coleman Ladd, Richard H. Recchia and Frederick W. Allen.

The art department of the Lawrence Woman's club has done a splendid public service in bringing the work of these distinguished artists to Lawrence. It is hoped that the many art-lovers in this vicinity will avail themselves of this unusual opportunity to study the methods of these masters of art.

The following committee from the Lawrence Woman's club has been working hard for the success of this exhibit: Mrs. Leon G. Beeley, chairman; Mrs. Ernest C. Jewell, Mrs. Bernard M. Sheridan, Mrs. David C. Farr, Mrs. William Greenwood, Mrs. William D. Livermore, and Miss Harriet C. Lord.

The pictures are most effectively hung, none detracting from the value and beauty of any other. The sculpture and most of the oil paintings will be found in the main delivery room. Eight choice water colors, some wonderful marines and extremely interesting portraits will be found in the reference room. The prices range all the way from $3000 to $125.

In this brilliant galaxy the following are some of the most noteworthy: "The Cove", by Stanley W. Woodward, for its very fine colorings and mass effects; "Mountain Road", by Charles C. Allan, for its contrasts of sunlight and shadow and the way in which the artist has taken advantage of his position to create the greatest impression of height. There is something sublime about this picture. "Logmen", by Aldro T. Hibbard, is a night scene in the woods. Notice the effect of the firelight on the snow. On either side are two very fine flower paintings. The subject is the same, peonies, but the treatment is entirely different. These are the work of William M. Paxton and John Sharman. On the opposite wall, "The Gay Gown", by Marie D. Page, stands out as a masterpiece. It is a mother and child group. The mother's gown, with its splashing hollyhock pattern, is gorgeous but it is the splendid modelling of the figures and the exquisite flesh tints that proclaim the master hand. "Girl with Macaw", by Arthur P. Spear, is an interesting study in parallel lines and subdued color. "The Talavera Jug" a study in yellow by Alice R. Soher, is finely handled; also "The Letter" (Portrait of a Lady in pink) by Miss Hazelton and Mr. Kaula's "Spring in New Hampshire Hills" has true spring atmosphere.

Passing into the inner room, one's attention is arrested by the majestic ships on either side of the door: "The Privateer", by Philip Little, and "The Tea Clipper" by John P. Benson. The former is gloriously conceived and brilliantly executed. Notice the fine old swell on the ocean and the lovely colorings, also the effectiveness of putting one of the ships in the background. "The Tea Clipper" is a decided contrast but very delicately handled.

The water colors are exquisite and well worthy of special study. Among the most charming are those by Charles C. Allen, for their contrasts and brilliancy of coloring, Sears Gallagher's "Island Garden" and "Monhegan Harbor" for their extreme delicacy of touch, and the striking views of Mt. Washington and Boott Spurr by Henry W. Rice. Notice the contrast of cold snow-capped mountains and warmer foregrounds with bare rocks, brown grass and green firs. There are slso some fine floral pieces by Eleanor W. Mottley, especially the calla lilies.

Special attention is called to the notable works of sculpture included in the exhibit: three by Cyrus E. Dallin, "Baby's Head", "Head of Sitting Bull" and "The Last Arrow"; two by Richard H. Recchia, "The Sirene" and "Down and Out"; and two by Anna Coleman Ladd, "Piping Pan" and "Jeritza"; also "The Victor", by Frederick W. Allen, instructor in the Museum of Fine Arts.

Communication

To the Public:

I wish to express my appreciation to all who helped to make our Community Easter Egg Hunt a success; the Selectmen, Board of Public Works, Police Department, teachers, church workers, Sons of Veterans, Scouts, ladies of the Guild, Mother's Club, and all individuals who so graciously gave funds or time in decorating or wrapping eggs, making lily badges or supervising the hunt.

Besides funds, nearly one thousand hen eggs were sent in by different people as well as several dozen hand-painted china eggs and a few boxes of candy eggs. Additional candy eggs were purchased as well as one hundred chickens, rabbits and nests. The entire cost of the hunt was $48.30 all of which was donated for the purpose.

I also wish to congratulate the parents and teachers of Andover on the splendid conduct of the hundreds of children who attended the hunt. Such an affair is a lesson and a definite test of fair play, sportsmanship, and self-control since the excitement is intense, particularly when there is no fence around the area used. Many boys and girls above the hunt age assembled to watch the fun but made no effort to enter the park, while the younger children waited patiently for the bugle signal. Not all the little tots found eggs but instead of roughness, a beautiful spirit of generosity prevailed. The fortunate ones graciously divided with those who were unsuccessful. In many cases friends worked together in teams dividing afterwards. The largest number of eggs reported to me as found by a single child was 41; these varied in size from jelly beans to hen eggs.

If you missed the egg hunt this year try to take part in it next spring as it is a rather spectacular event and almost as much fun for grown-ups as for children.

Service of the "Three Hours Agony" Impressive

The "Three Hours Agony" was held in St. Augustine's church Good Friday. The services began at twelve o'clock and were concluded at three with the veneration of the relic of the true cross. The addresses on the "Seven Last Words of Christ" while he hung on the cross were given by Rev. Charles A. Brantoa, O.S.A., pastor. The prayers were said by Rev. John A. Whelan, O.S.A.

The hymns for the occasion were sung by members of the choir assisted by girls of the eighth grade of the parochial school under the direction of Miss Annie G. Donovan, organist.

The sanctuary was transformed into a replica of "Mount Calvary" with a statue of the "Dead Christ" entombed in the foreground. A large cross was erected on the gospel side of the altar.

Beside the hymns sung by the choir were three solos by Fr. Branton, Miss Kathleen Hart and Eugene Zalla.

The hymns sung were: "O Come and Mourn", "Forgive Them, O My Father", "Lord, of Mercy and Compassion", Kathleen Hart; "When Our Heads Are Bowed With Woe," "Gethsemane," a lamentation "Calvary" from "The Tenebrae," Fr. Branton; "His Are the Thousand, Sparkling Rills", "O Perfect Life of Love", "And Now, Beloved Lord," "My God, My Father, While I Stray," Eugene Zalla; "Stabat Mater."

The sermon on the "Passion" was preached Friday night by Rev. John A. Whelan, O.S.A., followed by the veneration of the relic of the true cross.

Abbot Academy Notes

During the spring recess, Miss Bailey was the chief speaker at the luncheon of the New York Abbot club, which was held on March 31 at the Women's University club. Miss Kelsey and Miss Mason were in Washington, as was Miss Bancroft. Miss Grimes visited in New York and Baltimore, and Miss Burt spent a part of the holidays in New York, while Miss Bean was in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Abbie Leland Moses, mother of Miss Camilla Moses of the faculty, died in Natick on Tuesday, April 10.

The spring term began on Thursday morning, April 12.

The many Abbot friends of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Scannell are very much interested in the fact that they are celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, and are wishing them continued happiness and prosperity for the years to come.

On Saturday afternoon, April 14, at 2.45 o'clock, Mrs. Sioka-An Chin Woo will give a recital of Chinese songs. Attention is called to the paragraph concerning this occasion. The public is welcomed to attend.

Sunday evening, April 15, Miss Bailey will conduct the Easter service at 7.30 in Davis Hall, to which friends of the school are invited. The musical program is as follows:

Organ — Easter Morning Vierne
Chorale — Jesus Christ my sure defence ever liveth Bach
Anthem — Why seek ye the living? Foster
Anthem — O Filii et Filiae Lissi
Recital
O Filii et Filiae Lovet
I know that my Redeemer liveth Handel
Miss Louise Tobey
Paean Widor

On Tuesday evening, April 17, the day scholars are to entertain the house girls.

To Give Recital of Chinese Songs

Sioka-An Chin Woo will give a recital of Chinese songs at Abbot academy on Saturday afternoon, at 2.45 o'clock. Some of the songs will be accompanied by a Chinese dulcimer, others by piano. Mrs. Woo was educated at Bradford academy and at Radcliffe college. Her husband earned the degree of Ph.D. at Johns Hopkins University.

The songs will be sung in the Chinese language, translations being given in the program. Judging by the translations, many of these songs hold an unique quality, one not met with in Occidental poetry. It is understood that Mrs. Woo will add interest to her program by making explanatory remarks from the platform. Friends of the school are cordially invited to attend.

Calvary Baptist Church Notes

In the effort culminating with the Easter services in Calvary Baptist church, Lawrence, last Sunday, Dr. Fowler announced that one hundred and five had united with the church, and still others had signified their intention of doing so.

20th Anniversary of Clan Institution Royally Celebrated

Royal Secretary Thomas P. Gibbs of Belmont, a frequent visitor ot Andover, brought the greetings and congratulations of the Royal Clan to Clan Johnston, 185, O. S. C. last Friday night when it celebrated the twentieth anniversary of its institution, with a supper, concert and dance in Fraternal Hall.

The supper was served by Caterer Weigel and the excellent menu consisted of fruit cocktail, roast pork, boiled onions, mashed potatoes, pickles, applesauce, banana fritters, green peas, ice cream, cake and fancy cookies and coffee.

Clan Johnston was instituted on April 3, 1908 and organized at the home of William Cunningham in old Frye Village. Eighteen members comprised the clan and the list was read by Thomas Thin, a past chief and past royal deputy.

The original members were: William Morrisey, John MacDonald, first chief, William Cunningham, first past chief, Thomas Bruce, Thomas Thin, first tanist, P. C. Samuel R. Harris, first treasurer, George Guthrie, James Ryley, Edward Manning, David Innes, James MacPherson, John Munro, P.C. Edwin Nicoll, Fred Irvine, John Wyllie, P.C. George Baxter and William Ireland.

The original officers were: John MacDonald, chief; William Cunningham, past chief; Thomas Thin, tanist; George Baxter, chaplain; Thomas Bruce of Lawrence, financial secretary; Samuel R. Harris, treasurer; Thomas Ryley, secretary; James Ryley, senior henchman. The clan "moots" were held in the old Workman hall in the building which stood at the corner of Park and Main streets before the building of the Barnard block, later in the Musgrove Building and for the past four years in the Fraternal building on Park street.

The Ladies' auxiliary members were guests and Past Chief Edwin Nicoll of Clan Lindsay, Cambridge and one of the original members of Clan Johnston, and Past Chief William Hodge now of Clan Lindsay were also present and spoke. William Morrisey, the first member of Clan Johnston responded when called upon by Chief John Auchterlonie, who presided. Royal Secretary Gibbs, Mrs. George B. Petrie, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and David B. Lourie, chieftain of the Junior clan, occupied seats on the platform.

Royal Secretary Gibbs paid a tribute to the service rendered Andover by Clan Johnston and the Ladies' auxiliary and was certain that the Scottish people as represented by the clansmen and sisters, were held in high esteem in their town. He spoke of the wonderful fraternal spirit displayed by Clan Johnston not only among their "ain folk" but also to others who had experienced misfortune, citing a recent example of that spirit by members of Clan Johnston. He predicted a bright future for the local clan and the auxiliary and looked for a large increase in membership.

Mrs. George B. Petrie's words were "golden" as she brought the greetings of the Ladies' auxiliary and presented the Clan with a substantial gift of money. Chief Auchterlonie accepted and responded for the Clan.

Past Chiefs and Past Royal Deputy Thomas Thin and Robert Dobbie also spoke, the former giving many interesting anecdotes of the early days of the clan. He paid tribute to the Ladies' Auxiliary, which will celebrate its 20th anniversary in October, despite the belief in some quarters that the auxiliary dates only from its affiliation with the Grand lodge. Mrs. William Cunningham was the first president of the auxiliary.

The concert was the best ever given by Clan and Auxiliary talent. The Clan quartet with George Leacock making his first appearance as bass, sang in splendid harmony and were repeatedly encored. Mr. Leacock sang "Roll on Thou Deep and Dark Blue Ocean." George Carmichael made a very fine impression on his first appearance as a soloist and the audience wished to hear him again. Robert Cargill sang in his usual pleasing manner and Mrs. Alfred R. Harris brought a tear to the eye of not a few by her fine singing of "Dear Auld Home." The Clan auxiliary quartet, Mrs. Barbara Chase, Mrs. Alexina Guthrie, Mrs. Jean Ward and Miss Ina Petrie made a big hit in their character song "The Barrin' o' Our Door." Miss Rachel Stewart delighted the audience with her dancing of the Highland Fling an the Sword Dance.

A word of praise is due Miss Elizabeth Valentine, who played the accompaniments in a very efficient manner.

Welcome, John Auchterlonie, chief of Clan Johnson; selections, "A Little Bit of Harmony," "Stars of the Summer Night," Clan Johnston quartet; solo, "In the Garden of Your Heart," Miss Johan Holden; baritone solo, "Big Bass Viol," George Carmichael; reading, "Jock Tanison," Mrs George Brown; character song, "Barrin' o' Our Door." Obituary

EDWARD F. WHITTON

Edward F. Whitton passed away Thursday evening, April 5, at his home 3 Fulton street, Reading, as the result of a paralytic shock.

On the previous Monday evening while playing the accompaniment for an end man who was rehearsing for the Square and Compass minstrel show, his right hand remained stationary on the keyboard, with only his left hand playing. Mr. McKenna, his assistant, went to him and Mr. Whitton complained of feeling ill. He was taken to an anteroom and later to his home. Although he had been under treatment for about five years for high blood pressure, he was apparently quite himself early in the evening.

As a director of musical shows and minstrel entertainments, a pianist and soloist, he was well known in this vicinity and the successful productions which he has staged could be numbered by the score.

Edward F. Whitton was born in Cambridge thirty-four years ago, the son of James A. and Harriett R. (Lunt) Whitton. He went to Reading when he was but four years of age and had lived here ever since. He attended the public schools graduating from Reading High and was employed for several years as a clerk by the American Woolen Co. at Lawrence.

He is survived by his mother, with whom he made his home; a widow, Marion A.; a brother, James F. Whitton; and three sisters, Mrs. Mildred Stingel of Cambridge, Mrs. Edith P. Skinner of Cambridge, and Miss Edna R. Whitton of Reading. He was a members of Wakefield Lodge of Elks.

Funeral services were conducted from the First Congregational Church Monday afternoon at three o'clock. Rev. Payson E. Pierce officiated and the interment was at Laurel Hill.

Selectmen Order La France Pumper

It was voted to order a Type 12, 1000-gallon Metropolitan Triple combination pumping engine with 80-gallon water booster tank from the American La France company, at a meeting of the Board of Selectmen held on Wednesday. The cost will be $13,000, the sum appropriated at the last annual Town meeting.

The exact specifications have not been determined on, but it is expected that the contract will be signed shortly, so that it may be approved, lettered, and delivered within the next fortnight.

Brush and Grass Fires

Until the pouring rain of Wednesday night the firemen had a busy time with brush and grass fires. After a week of frequent alarms, last Friday broke the record with ten in twenty-four hours.

The first was a still alarm at 10.45 a .m., for a fire at the corner of Dufton and Burnham roads. The second was in answer to Box 4 at 10.55 a. m., for a blaze on the property of Daniel Hart and Henry W. Barnard on High street. Several houses were in danger when firemen arrived just in time to check the flames which were sweeping toward the buildings.

The afternoon started with a still alarm at 1.05 calling the department to a brush fire on Argilla road, on the land belonging to the American Woolen company. Ten minutes later Box 4 sounded to call more help to the same place. The next was a still alarm at three o'clock when firemen attempted to check a grass fire on the Phillips academy grounds. One of three piles of board walks was destroyed, and it was found necessary to ring in Box 336 near Day Hall on Salem street at 3.35 to get more help. Serious damage was done to the stand of evergreens owned by Phillips academy as the fire swept through the long grass. In the meantime, a still alarm was answered at 3.10 for a fire on Andover street, Ballardvale, at 3.15 for a grass fire on Highland road, and at 3.20 for a grass fire on land of F. L. Porter and Mrs. Helen C. Hurley on Bartlet street. Calls to Ballardvale were answered at 3.40 and 4.30 for more help and apparatus at the fire on Andover street in Ballardvale.

About four hundred members were present, one coming from Cambria, Maine, who has been a member of the Grange for fifty-four years. An ovation was given Edward W. Burtt of Andover Grange when Deputy Harvey Turner announced that Mr. Burtt had been a member of Andover Grange for thirty-nine years and had never missed a meeting. AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL NOTES

New Extension Organization For Women County Home Economics Extension Committee

At the first meeting of the newly organized Extension Committee on March 30 the following members were present: Mrs. C. S. Wright of Danvers, Mrs. H. K. Richardson of Middleton, Mrs. E. Robert Little of Boxford, Mrs. George Mitchell of Groveland, Mrs. Irving Johnson of Rowley, Mrs. Fred Kilham of Hailton, Mrs. Bernard Manning of Amesbury and Miss Marion Parker of Beverly.

The following officers were chosen for one year: Chairman, Miss Marion Parker of Beverly; vice chairman, Mrs. E. Robert Little of Boxford; and secretary, Mrs. C. S. Wright of Danvers.

The purpose in organizing this committee is to put the Extension work for women on a more business-like basis. These women will act as an executive committee and will cooperate with the Home Demonstration Agent and the town chairmen in putting on a well organized extension program in the communities of Essex County. One of the first problems which this committee will work out will be a survey of the rural sections of Essex County. This will give an idea of the number of women with whom the Extension Department should cooperate, together with the number of women who have cooperated with the Extension Department.

Annual Meeting of Women Extension Workers

The annual meeting of the workers in the Extension Department will be held at the Essex County Agricultural school on Tuesday, May 22. This includes town chairmen, project leaders, and committees. Reports will be given by all the active Town chairmen.

Bee-Keeping

The excellent weather of the past week has permitted the bees several flights already thus early in the season. Bee-keepers wanted their swarms in the best of condition for the apple bloom. If there is any question about sufficient stores the hives should be opened and an investigation made. A syrup is recommended composed of two parts of sugar to one part of water, heated or boiled until the grain has disappeared. Place in shallow dish with float in super about the brood trays.

Agricultural Speaking Contest

The elimination contest held at the Horticultural Hall, Boston, on March 30 in connection with the State speaking contest for agricultural students, resulted in the Essex Aggie team receiving two firsts and one alternate place. Peter Pasukonis and Clifford Bryer of the Essex County School were and Hugh Kenworthy and James Hasson of the Bristol County school were selected to represent the County Districts at the final contest to be held May 4 at the Massachusetts Agricultural college. Nathan Hale of Essex County and Warren Foge of Norfolk County were chosen as alternates.

Reading

The vast number of books we have impresses on us the necessity of a wise selection of what we read. One book may determine what a man shall be to all eternity. Benjamin Franklin said that a single reading of Cotton Mather's "Essay to Do Good," shaped his entire life. One page of a good book may save a soul. One paragraph of a bad book may ruin a soul. John Angell James, one of the best men England has produced, stood in his pulpit in his old age and said that he had never overcome the evil effect of having for fifteen minutes once read a bad book.—Exchange.

The Strawberry Tree

The strawberry tree as distinguished from the strawberry plant is not a native of England, although it is to be seen occasionally in the parks and gardens of that country, but in Ireland it is frequently found growing wild especially in the neighborhood of Killarney. It usually bears flowers about the end of September or beginning of October, and along with the flowers are found the fruits of the previous year.

The fruit is a large orange-red berry, closely resembling the strawberry; hence the name of the tree.

A. E. O'HEIR AND COMPANY OF LOWELL OFFERS ITS SERVICES TO PURCHASERS OF FURNITURE

In a Modern Store Thirty Thousand Feet of Floor Space Is Devoted to Showing Home-Furnishings—Cheerful and Efficient Service Has Characterized This Store for Forty Years

The firm of A. E. O'Heir & Company was started forty years ago on upper Merrimack street, opposite the Lowell City Hall. Soon requiring more room, a four-story building in Merrimack Square, now the site of the D. L. Page company, was taken, and later was enlarged by the addition of another three-story building in the rear.

After twenty-four years in this location, the need for more room became urgent; the Y. M. C. A. buildings in Hurd street were bought and remodelled into a modern store especially adapted to the furniture business, with thirty thousand square feet devoted entirely to showing house-furnishings, with two warehouses in separate buildings from which to draw.

The personnel of this store remains the same — one will find the same cheerful, efficient service that has characterized this store for forty years. Employees with records of twelve, fifteen, twenty-five and thirty-five years of service are ready to serve with the experience of all these years to help select your home furnishings.

LABOR AND WAGE SITUATION

Babson Shows High Wages Increase Productivity

BABSON PARK, MASSACHUSETTS, APRIL 13, 1928. — Mr. Babson in his weekly interview today, discusses the labor and wage situation. He points out the importance of labor saving machinery, scientific management, increased efficiency of labor and management, and the high wage standard. Mr. Babson finds some seasonal upturn in strikes, but no abnormal situation in this respect. He shows cities which report fair opportunities for more labor.

Why Wages Remain High

"Many people are amazed that wage rates have not declined during the winter months when unemployment was severe. The popular explanation is that living costs have not fallen enough to warrant lower wages. This seems to me like putting the cart before the horse. The cost of living would decline fast enough if wages declined. The facts, however, are that manufacturers have found that high wages increase production and maintain a high level of purchasing power for their products. The real reason why wages remain high in the face of unemployment is because manufacturers have found that it pays to pay high wages.

"Moreover, this is conclusively proven by events of the past ten years. Since 1919 the value of factory output has increased somewhat over a billion dollars, but the cost of raw materials has decreased approximately the same amount. That means two billion dollars released for dividends, increased wages, and other expenses of business. The startling fact, however, is that the amount of goods turned out per worker since 1919 has increased about 40 per cent. This increase in efficiency in itself justifies the payment of high wage rates.

Increase In Labor Efficiency

"The factors that have brought about greater production per worker have also contributed to unemployment. In an article a few weeks ago I pointed out the great readjustment necessary in labor because of improved machinery and manufacturing methods. Although improvement in machinery is a big factor in the increase in production without a corresponding increase in the number employed, it is not the only factor. Labor is more efficient. This is seen on the railroads, in the factories, and in practically every line of business.

"Also management is more efficient. Great progress has been made toward simplification and standardization of products, making mass production possible. Nearly 7,000 individual manufacturers have adopted simplified practice projects in eighty different lines of manufacture. This is, of course, a great saving of labor and a stimulus to production. It also helps manufacturers to maintain a high wage rate.

Strikes Show Seasonal Upturn

"Strike statistics indicate that the peaceful conditions existing during the past Winter are temporarily at an end. The number of strikes has increased during February and March. This, however, is largely a seasonal movement. We are now at the period when new wage agreements are being made for the ensuing year particularly in the building industry. Eleven major strikes in the building trade are reported for March compared with three in February. The total strikes for March numbered forty-three compared with twenty in February. This, however, is not an unusual number and compared with some previous years reflects a relatively tranquil labor situation. Six major strikes are reported in the garment making trade, five in the textile mills, four in transportation, three in show factories, three in mining, and one each in food manufacturing, laundries, stone clay and glass production, tobacco, and civic employment. Wage reductions have been pretty well confined to the textile industry where fourteen wage cuts were made during the month of March. Textiles, therefore, accounted for fourteen of the nineteen wage reductions in all industries.

"In response to my questionnaire, what are the chances of employment for new people coming to your city?' most of the cities replied, 'They are fair.' Cities making such reports are, Racine, Fort Wayne, Charleston, Chattanooga, Kansas City, Richmond, Jackson (Michigan); Oklahoma City, Birmingham, Atchison, Baltimore, Indianapolis, Memphis, Lansing, Duluth, Mobile, and Pittsburg. Huntington, West Virginia and Galveston, Texas report chances for employment for new people as good. In a number of the reports which I have received the opinion was expressed that conditions would shortly improve with the greater activity in new building and the picking up in several important industrial lines. Moreover, in the farming sections of the South and West a more optimistic outlook is apparent. Agricultural employment is expected to absorb a large number of outdoor workers in these sections.

Labor Productivity By Industries

"The greatest single industry in this country is agriculture. Annual value of its production is nearly seventeen billion dollars. The fundamental trouble with the farming business, however, is that it shows the least value of output per worker of any industry. It employs 10,241,000 people which means only $1,700 annual value of production per person employed. Compare this with $11,000 output per man employed in the automobile industry. This clearly shows what modern machinery, modern management, and efficiency methods can do when applied to any industry. The salvation of the farmer depends upon adopting the efficiency methods, insofar as possible, that have been so successful in manufacturing lines. The farm industry cannot expect to prosper as long as it employs one-third of the total workers of the country and still shows a value of production per worker lower than any industry.

"One of the best ways to determine the efficiency of an industry is to divide the value of its products added by manufacture by the number of employees. This really gives a true index of the efficiency of the industry. It does not matter whether this efficiency comes through the use of labor saving machinery, through better management, through more efficient labor, or from a combination of all these causes. Economically, the industry which is most efficient is the one which shows the greatest value produced per workman. On this principle I have compiled an index of economic efficiency of some of the largest industries. Automobiles stand at the

Andover Police Back Without Man

Police Officers Leonard Saunders and Carl Stevens of the Andover police department returned home last Sunday from Chicago without their man.

They had been sent to Illinois to get Joseph Billington, Shawsheen man wanted for non-support, but the police officers were defeated by the Illinois state law which prevented them from taking the prisoner until April 20.

The officers were sent on the long trip by the District Attorney's office, and after making a useless appeal for the man, they came back and Officer Saunders went to Salem Monday to submit his report to the district attorney's office.

Billington is now in custody but will not be released to the Andover police until after April 20, the matter being governed by a state law.

Golf Season Opens Patriot's Day

With the golf season due to open officially on Patriot's day, Teddy Turner and John Shimkonis have started on their duties at the Andover Country club and making all preparations for the club's most successful season.

Mr. Turner will be the "pro" for the coming season, succeeding John Keenan, while Mr. Shimkonis will start his third year as caddy master.

Teddy Turner is a native of Nashua, N. H. and is only 22 years old. He started in golf while a student at Nashua High school and for over three seasons worked under "Joe" Stern; professional at the Nashua country club. He was at Portsmouth, N. H. in 1926 and in 1927 served as "pro" at Long Meadow, Lowell.

In the New England "pro" tourney at Sandy Bar last summer, he finished fourth with 154. Willie Ogg had 147, George Aulbach 150 and George MacLeod 153. He qualified for the national at Dallas, Texas, where as he says himself, he was nervous playing in his first big tournament and did not do as well as he ordinarily should.

Turner established a new course record at Vesper last season when he played the 18 holes in 66 or seven under par and bettered the old record of 70, held by Marshall Forrest. He was out in 31, par 36, and home in 35, par 37, yet he took a 5 on the home hole. He registered three birdies, two eagles and 13 par holes in setting the new record.

Turner is extremely youthful in years, but in the short time he has been connected with the game he has made rapid strides and today is regarded as one of the most promising professionals in New England. He has a fine personality and is bound to be popular at the local course, just as he was at Nashua, Portsmouth and Lowell.

During the past winter he conducted an indoor school at Nashua. It was highly successful and profitable, so much so that he abandoned his original plan of playing in southern tournaments.

Billy Grimes has the following to say of the new "pro".

Four years ago when Joe Stern was appointed professional at the Nashua Country club he chose Teddy Turner, then a caddy at that club to be his assistant.

For three years Turner served in apprectice ship under Stein. Then he started out on his own when he took up the professional berth at the Portsmouth golf club.

During the years he was assistant "pro" at Nashua the hours that he was able to devote to the game were very limited as he was obliged to devote most of his time to club making and taking care of the shop. But as Teddy had made up his mind to become a golfer of note he managed to get in some practice at the close of each day.

It was nothing unusual to see young Turner practising with all the seriousness of a Hagan or Jones.

As soon as he became assistant to Stein, Turner was elegible for the N.E.P.G.O. amateur-pro and straight professional tournament. The fact that only on rare occasions was he able to break 90 in no measure dampened his ardor to become a golfer. Nor was his interest in the playing of the game lessened by his failure to score. Always a keen student of the game, Teddy Turner studied carefully the form and execution of the leading lights in professional as well as the amateur ranks.

For three years he was a consistent cellar champion. In almost every tournament he held up the field but being a fighter with his mind set to develop into a real golfer he battled along showing some little improvement on each start.

Then two years ago Teddy started to come, flashing in a couple of tournaments as well as turning in some noteworthy rounds at Portsmouth.

Teddy's duties at Portsmouth were light and he devoted all of his spare time to practice and by the end of the season his game had improved to such an extent that it was on a rare occasion that he failed to break into the 70s.

The season of 1927 was a banner one for Turner at Longmeadow. Over a period of two years he cut his game to an average imrpovement of about 15 strokes. Where he was shooting 88 to 91 in 1925, in two years he was capable of playing practically any course in par or within a stroke or two of par figures and on seven occasions was in the 60s.

His 67 is the best round ever shot at Long Meadow while during the New England championships at Commonwealth he had a 68. Probably the best round of golf Teddy shot last year rolled off his sticks during the Franklin country club amateur-pro tournament when he had an individual ball during the morning round of 71, which set a new course record.

SPEAKS ON EDUCATION

Principal Nathan C. Hamblin Discusses Old and New in Education at Parent-Teacher Association Meeting

"The Old and New in Education" was the subject disucssed by Nathan C. Hamblin, principal of Punchard High school, at the regular meeting of the Shawsheen Parent-Teacher association held Wednesday evening. He said that the greatest change was in the development in the study of education. Not so many years ago there was no special training for teachers, but today nearly every teacher enrolls in a summer school course or is taking some course in the winter months. Changes for the better have also been brought about particularly through the study of the needs of the individual child.

He stated that perhaps the greatest and best thing that has been done in the past twenty-five years was the introduction of the intelligence tests. They are regularly used now and by them a pretty accurate knowledge of the native ability of the child is obtained.

Formerly there was a set number of studies which were taken by all students. Now they fit the course of study to the needs of the individual, and although it is impossible to meet every need of the future every effort is extended to make good citizens.

A short business meeting was held and the report of the nominating committee was read and accepted. Grade 3 won the banner for attendance.

A vaudeville show was announced which will be presented in the school hall Friday evening, April 20. It is uner the direction of James R. Mosher and the program which is being arranged will contain several acts of high quality and a movie. Dancing will follow the performance and the Milville Lake orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music.

Miss Roxie Smith was the soloist of the evening and sang "A Quaint Cornish Town" and "Sunrise and You" in a delightful manner. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Arthur Rohrer. Refreshments and a social hour closed the meeting with the following committee in charge: Mrs. C. A. Johnson, chairman; Mrs. Harold Cates, Mrs. Daniel J. Mahoney, Mrs. Alexander Wallace, Mrs. J. Twoomey and Mrs. Henry Hart.

Golfers Get Started

Between 60 and 70 golfers took advantage of the summery weather the past week-end and warmed up over the Andover Country club course using the temporary greens for play. The regular greens will probably be used this week-end. Among the regulars noted were: W. B. Knowlton, George Best, Clarence Waugh, Alden Taylor, Norman Wiggin, Clifford North, S. A. Lindsay, E. M. Rickard, Judge A. G. Pierce, Robert Brown, William Ross and Ernest Johnson. John Flaherty, greenskeeper, has the greens in excellent chape and is preparing for the opening on April 19 when partners play best ball, combined 3-4 handicap.

The turnout Sunday was the biggest ever noted at the club at this early date, indicating that the course will be more popular than ever this season.

Millions of Model T Fords are still in active service

FOR nearly twenty years, the Model T Ford led the motor industry and it still is used by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service today—an indication of their sturdy worth, reliability and economy.

Because of the tremendous investment which people have in these cars and because so many of them will be driven for two, three, and even five more years, the Ford Motor Company will continue to make replacement parts until, as Henry Ford himself says, "the last Model T is off the road."

For the Ford Motor Company has always believed that its full duty consists not only in making a good automobile at a low price, but also in keeping it running efficiently for you as long as possible at a minimum of expense.

No matter where you live, therefore, you can still buy Model T Ford parts with the same assurance as formerly, knowing that they will give you the kind of service you have a right to expect, and at the same time protect the money you have invested in your car.

All Ford replacement parts, as you may know, are made of the same materials and in the same way as those from which your car was originally assembled, and are low in price because of the established Ford policy.

So that you may get the greatest use from your Model T Ford over the longest period of time, we suggest that you take the car to the nearest Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of any replacement parts which may be necessary. You may find that a very small expenditure will maintain the value of your car and will be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.
